So, what is an operating system?

Operating System

➡ In a nutshell, an OS manages hardware and runs programs

- creates and manages processes

- manages access to the memory (including RAM and I/O)

- manages files and directories of the filesystem on disk(s)

- enforces protection mechanisms for reliability and security

- enables inter-process communication